Gerard Bradley has been Professor of Law at the University of Notre Dame since 1992. Before that he taught at the University of Illinois College of Law and, before that, served as an Assistant District Attorney in the Trial Division of the Manhattan District Attorney's Office. For twenty-five years until 2019 Professor

Bradley and John Finnis directed at Notre Dame the Natural Law Institute and edited The American Journal of Jurisprudence. He served for many years as the President of the Fellowship of Catholic Scholars as well as Chair of the Federalist Society's Religious Liberties Practice Group. Bradley is a Senior Fellow of the Witherspoon Institute and a Trustee of the James Wilson Institute. Bradley's most recent book is Catholic Social Teaching: A Volume of Scholarly Essays, which he co-edited with Christian Brugger, published by Cambridge University Press.
